DISTILLERY

Fiji is one of the only countries where the entire distilling process is done by hand, from the cutting and pressing of the sugar cane to the labelling of the bottles. These amazing rums offer an agricole style, but with distinctive punch and funk unique to Fiji

DRÀM MÒR[®]

SINGLE CASK RUM

CASK TYPE

Matured in refill bourbon barrel

NOSE

Funk, room filling overpowering funk, with molasses and ginger, declaring to the world that perhaps Jamaica does not do it best.

PALATE

Complex agricole notes reminiscent of a great Clarin. Sweet to start, but becoming dry and gingery towards the end.

FINISH

Dry, ginger, overripe bananas, hot spices, cool syrup and a funk to finish that is somehow both familiar and unrecognisable.

TRINIDAD DISTILLERS LIMITED

13 Year Old

58% ABV

Cask No. #2

DISTILLERY

Under British colonial control for 160 years, Trinidad and Tobago had a similar rum trajectory to Jamaica and Barbados, although with a much smaller output. Sugar cane was grown and processed for shipping back to England with the waste product, molasses, turned into rum. With a history of dryer, more nuanced rums the Islands built a reputation for quality rums from all three of its largest distilleries. Our rum is typical of the island, dry, very spicy and with an elegant range of distinct flavours.
